THOUSANDS TO BE IN GYMNASTIC EXHIBIT Workers Among Poor of Washing-

Washington School Children Will Demonstrate at American League Park May 20.

More than 5,000 Washington school friends what they have learned in "health" classes this year at the ex-hibition of gymnastic work to be given for the benefit of school playgrounds for the benefit of school playgrounds at American League Park on the afternoon of May 20.

Under the leadership of Dr. Rebecca Stoneroad, director of physical training in the public schools, the eight young women who comprise the corps of instructors have been working like beavers drilling and organizing the hundreds of children who are to take part. No little part of the work has been the designing of costumes, the cutting of patterns, and the distribution of materials to the various schools, to be finished, in some cases, by the children themselves.

themselves.

Every grade will have a chance to show some representative phase of its "health" course, for the program includes the singing games of the fifth grade as well as the dumbbell drills of the eighth.

Hope For Big Attendance. Encouraged by the success of the similar gymnastic exhibition held two similar gymnastic exhibition held two years ago, those in charge hope that the record attendance of the former time will be equaled, since the maintenance of well-equipped playgrounds at the schools this summer will be greatly affected by the amount realized.

Seventeen grounds were maintained last year, the money being raised by the schools and parents of the pupils.
Like the municipal playgrounds, those of the schools have combined industrial training with play, offering instruction in basketry, bead-work, chair caning, embroidery, sewing, hammock-making, crocheting and knitting. Classes for retarded pupils have also been maintained at three of the grounds, and a number of children have been able to enter higher grades in the fall because enter higher grades in the fall because of their summer work. Realizing the need for the opportunities summer playgrounds can offer, the school authorities planned the exhibition, feeling that the children might enjoy earning their playgrounds themselves.

To Hold Mass Rehearsals.

Plats have been made, and the children grouped by schools, so that each school will know its position and no time need be wasted in hustling lost performers into place at the last mo-

Beginning next week, a series of mass rehearsals will be held, when as many schools as possible will be grouped so as to accustom them to working with other classes. All the Georgetown children who are to take part will rehearse at the Rosedale grounds on Monday morning. Another series of classes will meet at Montrose Park on the same day. All the third division schools will have a mass drill at Monroe School next Wednesday.

The first rehearsal at American eague Park takes place on May 14, a little less than a week before the exhibition. At this time the problems of seating those who take part will be solved and the entire sections will have the first thrills of a practice with every unit of each drill present.

clety of Automobile Engineers, which was in session recently in Detroit, made the following report on "dimmers" that is of general interest:

"The problem of limiting headlight illumination to conform to proper regulations in city and country driving is a vexing one. It has been considered repeatedly at committee meetings of the society which is endeavoring to formulate a simple test which can be conducted upon occasion by laymen in mulate a simple test which can be conducted upon occasion by laymen in mulational and State administration. The society will, of course, not approve any particular device or devices, but it is thought that if the general requisite conditions of eliminating 'glare' can be defined, the method of ascertaining the same by a practical test would be of great value to the manufacturers of the devices and the constabulary officials. At the present time the ordinances in effect in the various parts of the country differ greatly and the enforcement of the same depends in large part upon a personal equation which will differ from block to block in a city.

"Amons the basic considerations in the connection are the distance through which headlights provide illumination from the seat and of nullifying an approved set of conditions by the installation of a bulb of higher candienower. Gas filled bulbs now being introduced in the market also considure an element for consideration in the further development of the present situation."

ing at the Raleigh. When Mrs. Edwin Sefton, volunteer worker for the Associated Charities, went to a squalid, ill kept, shabby home she found the mother, a graduate of the University of Chicago, lying on a dirty cot, reading a text book on sociology.

This was only one of the many stories children will show their parents and told by volunteer charity workers at an experience meeting at the ball room of the Raleigh Hotel last night. The Rev. Dr. Jay T. Stocking, of the First Congregational Church, related how he had broken one "eternal triangle" by introducing the man in the case to church members, getting him

"If each one of us, today," she said, "would take charge of one needy family or individual, there would be no need of charitable organizations."

Charles D. Westcott, attorney for the Associated Charities, told of the legal aid given the poor. Other speakers were Louis Simon, George H. Wilson, Miss Margaret Howard, Miss Jennie Grady, Mrs. J. P. S. Neilgh, Mark Le-Grange, and Walter S. Ufford. Wallace Streater presided.

Artist Recital Given At Missionary College

The sixth and last of a series of artist recitals was given at Washington Missionary College of Takoma Park last evening by Prof. Clemen Hamer and Miss Barbara Knox, planists; Mrs. Winifred Ford-Hamer, contralto; Mrs.

Winifred Ford-Hamer, contraito; Mrs. Gertrude Gatcher Mustain, reader, and George Lehmann, 'ceilist.

Miss Knox and Prof. Hamer played a "Valse Caprice," by Spross and Miss Knox rendered "To Spring," by Grieg. Mrs. Ford-Hamer sang "There, Little Girl, Don't Cry" (Riley-Jones), and "In an Old Fashioned Town" (Squire). Prof. Lehmann played Paul Vidal's "Song of Exile," and Tschaikowsky's "June Barcarolle," Mrs. Mustain read Riley's poem, "An Old Sweetheart of Mine," and "The High Tide," by Jean Ingelow. Ingelow.

Offers Trophy and Medals For Civilian Rifle Clubs

A new national match, authorized by the National Board for Promotion of Rifle Practice will be incorporated in the events conducted by the National Rifle Association this year. The executive committee of the association has formulated the rules for a competition for civilian rifle clubs on outdoor ranges.

Each club will be represented by a team of ten riflemen. The War Department has donated a club trophy and individual medals for each class. The executive committee approved a proxram for the annual match at Jacksonville in October, and elected forty-three civilian clubs.
